

Home Health Care

Home health care is provided to patients in their home by professional and paraprofessional personnel under the direction of the patient's own physician.

Our home health care staff are qualified to deal with the total health care of the patient in the home, and work as a team to provide the best care possible.

Benefits of Home Care

There's no place like home. Here are just a few benefits of using Quantum Home Health Services:

Many Physicians find many patients recover sooner and more comfortably in the familiar surroundings of their home than they do in a hospital.

- Home care helps reduce medical costs without loss of quality
- Patients tend to stay involved in their care and to feel more independent at home
- Home care gives you the opportunity to be reunited with your family in familiar surroundings and still receive the care you need
- Home care treatment plans are tailored to fit your individual lifestyle

Professional Services

Our team of professionals offers traditional nursing care and patient education in the comfort of your own home. We understand the complexities of illness and the special needs of patients. That is why we use a primary care approach to teach them how to function best at home. Our trained staff of registered nurses; licensed nurses, physical, occupational and speech therapists; medical social workers; and home health aides work with patients to bring them to an optimal level of independence.

Physical. Occupational Speech Therapy

Our therapy team uses the latest technology and skill to get our patients to their prior level of functioning, when possible.
